Blade held in a flexible Rubber handle. Erasers

A.D. 1884, 6th OCTOBER. N° 13,226.

An Improved Ink and Pencil Eraser.

PROVISIONAL SPECIFICATION.

We, DENIS HAYES, Clerk, and JOSEPH JOHN PERRY, Managing Director both of 20 Holborn Viaduct, in the City of London do hereby declare the nature of our invention for AN IMPROVED INK AND PENCIL ERASER, to be as follows :—

Our invention consists of an improved combination for erasing Ink and pencil marks, and is constructed in the following manner :

We take a Steel Blade of the ordinary Eraser shape, but with a long tang, and we insert the said tang in a flexible India Rubber handle, in order to stiffen it, the blade forming the Ink Eraser, and the handle the Pencil Eraser. The said handle is tapered at the end to facilitate the erasure of pencil marks.

Hayes & Perry's Improved Ink and Pencil Eraser.

Improved Ink and Pencil Eraser.

COMPLETE SPECIFICATION.

We, DENIS HAYES, Clerk and JOSEPH JOHN PERRY, Managing Director both of 20 Holborn Viaduct, London E.C. do hereby declare the nature of our invention for AN IMPROVED INK AND PENCIL ERASER and in what manner the same is to be performed, to be particularly described and ascertained in and by the following statement:—

5

Our invention consists of an improved combination for erasing ink and pencil marks and is constructed in the following manner: We take a steel blade of any ordinary eraser shape but with a long tang and we insert the said tang in a flexible India Rubber tube, thus stiffening it. The India Rubber tube may be externally round or square. The blade thus forms the Ink eraser and the India Rubber tube handle the pencil eraser. The said handle is tapered at the end to facilitate the erasure of pencil marks.

10

Having now particularly described and ascertained the nature of our said Invention, and in what manner the same is to be performed, we declare that what we claim is

15

The combination of an India Rubber with a steel blade to form an Ink and Pencil Eraser substantially in the manner hereinbefore described.
